Works driver for the March 09R

SRCC Sports 2000 Stand 7160 at the Autosports Show

March Racing Academy is pleased to announce their works driver for the 2010 season. As part of the launch of the March 09 Recreation (09R), March Racing Academy will run a works team in the prestigious Sports 2000 Duratec Championship.

Alan Hudd, founder of the March Racing Academy declared, "I am very pleased to say that Mike Jenvey is appointed the works driver for the new 09R during the upcoming 2010 Sports 2000 championship"

Inspiration for the 09R has been the original 1975 Le Mans prototype MARCH 75S and the new design captures the style of the original 75S yet has been completely modernised to create a highly competitive and technically advanced race car.

The design has been carried out by Kieron Salter of K W Motorsport Ltd, an experienced race car designer who has developed a range of proven successful modern LMP cars.

Hudd added, "Mike won the Sports 2000 championship in 2009 so we couldn't have a better driver to bring the best out of the car. The decision on a works driver was a tough one. Mike is not only a naturally and very talented driver but is also able to articulate feedback on the set up of the car. This is important not only for us, but also for buyers of the 09R who will benefit from Mike's experience through the driver development programme. A racer buying a 09R can be assured the car will be set up and ready to race competitively from the very beginning".

Mike Jenvey said, "I am excited about developing the 09R into a winning race car package. The design of the car looks fantastic and it will be important to develop the set up of the car to maximise the cars obvious competitive performance. There are some excellent and very fast drivers in the Sports 2000 Duratec championship so the 09R will have to be very good for me to defend my title. I am looking forward to another highly competitive season”.

To see the brand new march 09R visit the Sports Racing Car Club (SRCC) Sports 2000 stand 7160 at the Autosports show.
